Throughout the year, Youth in Arts programs reach children in a range of settings, across all ages and all abilities. We’d like to share some stories of children who have discovered new possibilities through the arts this year. These stories give you a window into the kinds of transformations that happen when you support us.

To find out more about each of these children and their experiences in our programs, please visit our website at youthinarts.org.

Six year-old Tigotae worked with Youth in Arts Mentor Artist Brooke Toczylowski through our participation in the Model Arts Demonstration Project in the Sausalito Marin City schools. Throughout the year, this sequential visual arts program helped Tigotae access new arts and academic skills and develop his personal voice. Read how art has given Tigotae an early lesson about the value of his own ideas at youthinarts.org.

Sophie had never acted onstage, much less in a 2,000 seat auditorium! Find out how she worked with Mentor Artist Miko Lee in our Youth in Arts Presents series to overcome her nerves and connect with a live audience...

Mentor Artist Melissa Briggs Artists in Schools theatrical poetry residency with San Ramon Elementary Students became a channel for children to express feelings about a community tragedy. Read the poem they wrote and staged in honor of a lost friend...

Discover how Erin Greenwell draws upon her experience sharing love and community through music with `Til Dawn and Mentor Artist Austin Willacy in her work with traumatized youth in Uganda...

Sam and Shannon shared their first kiss at our Youth in Arts Italian Street Painting Festival in 2009. So this year, we helped Sam make a perfectly artistic wedding proposal...

Thank you for your support!
